

Call for 2018 Kentucky APSE Award Nominations

Please take time to read each award description carefully and consider nominating for these awards. This is a way to let a co-worker or disability advocate know they are doing a great job and their work is appreciated. We have a lot of great work going on across Kentucky! Let's showcase some of these people.

Nancy Hall Supported Employment Advocacy Award was established to honor a Rehabilitation Professional who has demonstrated exceptional determination and motivated individuals with the most significant disabilities to obtain their maximum vocational potential through Supported Employment.

Sam Serraglio Community Employment Award is given to a person that fosters the ideas of self-determination, individual excellence and independence for individuals with disabilities to successfully obtain community employment. The candidate demonstrates an ability to advocate for people with disabilities while building partnerships with the business community, service provider, the family/provider, and the individual.

Willie Byrd Legislative Award is given to a person who has supported and promoted the employment of people with significant disabilities through legislation and/or legislative efforts. Consideration for this award should be given to a legislator and/or individuals who have worked effectively within the legislative and advocacy realm to insure that people with significant disabilities have the opportunity to work.

The Jim Chesser Award for Advocacy was established in memory of Jim Chesser, a long time self-advocate and friend of KY APSE. The winner shall reflect the ideas of advocating for the full inclusion of people with disabilities, including employment. Preference may be given to persons who experience disability but anyone who furthers the goal of inclusion will be considered.
